Standards Assessed:

RL8.1-Cite the textual evidence that most strongly supports an analysis of what the text says explicitly as well as inferences drawn from the text.

RL8.2-Determine a theme or central idea of a text and analyze its development over the course of the text, including its relationship to the characters, setting, and plot; provide an objective summary of the text.

RL8.3-Analyze how particular lines of dialogue or incidents in a story or drama propel the action, reveal aspects of a character, or provoke a decision.

RL8.6-Analyze how differences in the points of view of the characters and the audience or reader (e.g., created through the use of dramatic irony) create such effects as suspense or humor.

Sample Question Starters:

- This propels the action by . . .
- Which of the following does NOT...
- Which quotation shows/reveals...
- What do these lines mean...
- What is the best objective summary...
- What does this sentence/ these lines reveal...
- What does the character mean by this statement
- What is revealed through dramatic irony... (what the audience knows and the character does not know)

How can I prepare:

- Keep up with reading in class
- Continue working on your Flowers for Algernon question packet
- Refer to your "Charlie, Before and After" worksheet
- Think about point of view. How would the story change if told from someone else?
